To whom it may concern;

National Jets is a Part 135 air carrier who provides executive charter and aircraft management services based at Ft. Lauderdale Hollywood International Airport. National Jets was established in 1972 and over the years has gone through a number of fleet transitions, from Learjet 23's, 24's, 25's, 35's to the latest transition leading us into an all Learjet 45 fleet. National also operates its own Part 145 Aircraft Maintenance and Repair Facility located on KFLI within our FBO. Our maintenance facility not only supports our own aircraft, but is also certified for aircraft as large as the Boeing BBJ down to single engine piston aircraft. National's maintenance department is considered the Learjet experts of the Southeast due to our vast experience in maintaining these aircraft.

Over the years, due to our experience with Learjets, when National went through the aforementioned fleet transitions, it was our practice to purchase our aircraft without the assistance of an aircraft acquisition agent or broker. Instead National would go through the total process on their own including market analysis, seeking out candidate aircraft, visual inspections, negotiations, contracting, pre-purchase inspections, and closings.

The aforementioned was our standard acquisition process for the past 43 years. However, this year during our latest fleet transition we opted to utilize the purchasing services of Aviation Resource Group. Our transition team dealt exclusively with Milan Rakic and during each step we compared what value his group provided versus what National would normally accomplish on its own during the aircraft purchase process. Without hesitation we can categorically state we were extremely impressed with all that Aviation Resource Group provided during each step of the acquisition. First and foremost, Milan provided candidate aircraft that were truly "off market" and that we could not locate on our own, even though we had strong experience in this phase of the process. In addition, Milan presents candidate aircraft in a manner that truly shows he understands the client's needs and desires and translates that to presenting aircraft that fit very well with the client's requirements. The calm professionalism and strong understanding of pros and cons of each aircraft was outstanding. We felt just as important was Milan's ability to know well the market conditions and specifics sounding the sellers and possible motivating points.

Aviation Resource Group managed every facet of our latest Learjet 45 purchase and each step of the way was handled in the most detailed and proper manner. Even Milan's follow through after the sales was impressive and I can attest that Milan will be assisting our group in future aircraft purchase for years to come. I recommend Milan and his company with the highest praise and can only think that your organization will benefit as much as mine did from utilizing his aircraft acquisition services.

Kind regards
